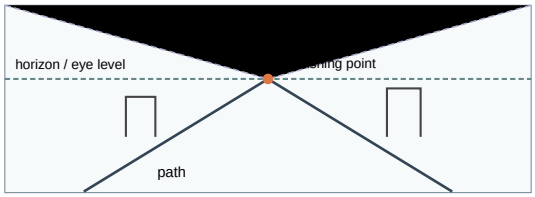
Art Studio: A Path That Looks Far Away

Tracking #: 2026-11-10-EMM-ART-PERSPECTIVE-PATH-43 · Submit BOTH printable pages

Make a REAL drawing: Read the Learn First demonstration. Spend about 30 minutes creating your own original perspective path/street in the large space below. Use a pencil and ruler/straight edge; color is optional.

Draw here: finished artwork with clearly marked vanishing point and horizon line.

Demonstration / visual reference: This model labels horizon, vanishing point, foreground and path edges. The original student work should use YOUR setting, not trace this exact finished image.



Art record and self-check

1. Explain where you placed the vanishing point and how the most important lines converge toward it.

2. List at least three specific depth cues you drew and explain one correction you made as you worked.

3. Compare ONE part of your drawing to the demonstration model. Name something original about yours.

Before scanning: Show your original drawing to a parent and submit both pages. The drawing, not the reflection questions, is the main work.
